Enservio, a provider of contents inventory creation, valuation, and replacement services and software, announced EnservioCommercial, a contents claims solution developed specifically for commercial property claims.

EnservioCommercial provides a full range of inventory, valuation, and replacement solutions insurance carriers need to improve the accuracy and efficiency of contents claims for businesses, with domain expertise in healthcare, manufacturing and retail.

"EnservioCommercial provides the specialized contents knowledge required to achieve accurate and timely settlements, allowing carriers and adjusters to focus on the structural and business interruption aspects of the claim," says Jon McNeil, Enservio's CEO. "This takes the pressure off adjusters to become instant experts about contents in the vast array of industries they encounter."

EnservioCommercial project managers provide a single point of accountability and ensure that contents claims are handled in the fastest, most efficient manner possible. Project managers smooth the process for adjusters and increase the customer satisfaction of insureds, overseeing all aspects of the content claims process, including:

- Complete and accurate inventorying of contents
- Coordination with all required vendors to determine repair vs. replace
- Expert valuation
- Aggregated reporting and analytics
- Facilitated scrapping and/or salvage
- Replacement/reinstallation
